No one wants the government or the court system to control their savings. The reality is that this is exactly what happens to the majority of people. Many simply do not want to commit to making decisions that would allow their families to avoid the high cost and lengthy delay of the Probate system. It is the sense of immortality when we are younger and the fear of our mortality as we age that prevents us from making this decision a priority.

We have never had a client that did not express a feeling of relief after signing their estate plan. Let Denker Law Firm take care of this important step in your life so you can get on with the business of living.
